Virus cases jump at jail

CCHS cancels classes through holiday

BY MARK CAMPBELL
Jefferson County is reporting 73 new cases of COVID-19 since Tuesday — including 48 in the last 24 hours — and select schools in both Indiana and Kentucky have shifted to virtual learning or canceled classes while the Jefferson County Jail is dealing with a growing outbreak that now affects more than 20% of its inmates. It's a situation that has health providers, schools officials and jail officials scrambling to gain control of a declining situation heading into the last holiday weekend of the summer.

Southwestern High School made the decision to shift to virtual learning Monday until after the upcoming Labor Day holiday weekend while Carroll County High School called off school entirely on Wednesday and canceled classes and all extracurricular activities until after the holiday break, both hoping that the time away will slow the spread of the coronavirus and give staff time to disinfect. Meanwhile, the Jefferson County Jail reported an increase in COVID-19 cases from five on Tuesday to 31 by Wednesday plus another four cases among the jail staff.

Chelsea Jubilee returns

Indiana's oldest continuous festival once again open to public

BY BOB DEMAREE
For more than 150 years, there has annually been a Chelsea Jubilee, and it seems a miracle of sorts that it's the oldest continuous festival in Indiana. Many years the festival didn't have a location, moving from one place to another, and the organizers weren't always the same, but somehow the Jubilee managed to happen year after year. Even last year when COVID-19 canceled festivals throughout the country, Chelsea Jubilee found a way to keep the tradition going. Last year's event was closed to the public with the officers and their families gathering on the first Saturday of September — the event's traditional date — for an opening ceremony, lunch and meeting to keep the long run going.

Everyone had an enjoyable time together which, after all, is the heart of the Jubilee. This year Chelsea Jubilee is back open to the public on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3-4, at the Saluda Township Park, 5860 State Road 62. Eston Smith, manager of the festival, said he "is still a little concerned with COVID-19" and considers this to be a rebuilding year in a sense. The Chelsea Jubilee is an event in which many participants have long involvement. Smith grew up in Saluda Township and said he's been going to the Jubilee since he was a toddler, missing only once in his lifetime when

SW schools update policy on COVID-19

SWHS virtual after 48% currently on quarantine

BY BOB DEMAREE

Just hours after making the switch to virtual learning at Southwestern High School, Southwestern School Board took action to update the school corporation's COVID-19 quarantine policy at its meeting on Monday while continuing voluntary procedures on mask wearing. With 48% of the high school's students currently on quarantine, the decision was made for Southwestern High School to shift to virtual learning on Monday and remain there this week before returning to in-person class on Tuesday, Sept. 7. To date, there have been 41 staff members and students test positive for COVID-19 this school year, according to Southwestern Superintendent Jeff Bates. On Monday, there were 526 students and staff quarantined for close contact to someone who had tested positive for the coronavirus. While noting that virtual learning is allowing high school students to continue receiving instruction, Bates emphasized he believes in-person education is the most effective manner for students to learn, and wants to do what's possible to ensure more students are able to attend classes in-person. "Kids and staff need to be in school if they are not showing any sign of sickness," Bates said. Of the 526 students and staff quarantined, Bates said only four have tested positive for COVID-19, and one of the positive cases had a family member who was also positive. "It a question of missing two weeks of in-person instruction basically for no reason," he said. "Kids need to be in school face-to-face in front of teachers," he said.

ONE BAND ENDURES, ONE BAND RETIRES

BY CHARLIE ROHLFING
This is a tale of two bands, both with strong ties to the Madison music scene. The first band is headlining the Rockin' on the River event at Bicentennial Park on Saturday. The second band will be singing their swan song this Saturday at Thomas Family Winery. Let's start with the former. The Monarchs have been playing great American rock and roll since 1961. The Louisville-based ensemble started out playing high school dances and parties, but

Cleanup taking place

Workers were busy Wednesday morning blowing debris off pavement in the 200 block of West Main Street. Once cleaned of debris, a crack filler will be applied ahead of two coats of sealer and re-striping as part of a project to recondition Main Steeet from Jefferson Street to the top of Hanover Hill. The city hopes the million dollar project will extend the useful life of the roadway to 2026 when a federal grant helps fund a multimillion milling and repaving of the 4.5-mile stretch of highway.

by 1964 their song “Look Homeward Angel” charted at number 47 on the Billboard Top 100.

“This will be their 11th year playing Rockin’ on the River,” says former Madison Mayor Al Huntington, one of the organizers of the event. “They love playing in Madison. In fact, if we haven’t called and booked them by early spring, they call and ask us.

“I would hate to even guess how many times The Monarchs have played in Madison over the years. They actually played at my wife Connie’s Senior Prom here in 1964! That had to be a big deal, with them hitting the national charts back then and playing on television.

“So years ago when Steve McAtee and I were kicking around ways to support the RiverRun Car Show, two things popped to mind. We should make it a benefit for the Salvation Army, an organization that does so much good in our community. And we should call the Monarchs!

“It’s been a great partnership ever since. The Monarchs have a strong fan base, and they always put on a great show, even 60 years after they started. I should mention that Arvin Sango is the Monarch’s sponsor this year. We really appreciate it.

“But our opening band really packs the house, too. The Doctor’s Band, sponsored by Trilogy Health, is a great complement to the Monarchs, with their own brand of timeless rock and roll.”

While I had Mayor Al, I couldn’t resist getting his take on the current music scene in Madison. It’s worth noting that the early planning stages of the Bicentennial Park project happened under his administration.

“The music is the most promoted and vibrant I’ve ever seen it,” said Mayor Al. “And we really need to commend the venue owners who are making the commitment to showcase such amazing musical talent in our town. I believe the emphasis on music is really driving our surge in tourism.”

The other band I want to cover in this week’s column is The Chestnuts, who are playing their farewell show this Saturday at Thomas Family Winery. It ends a 16-year partnership between Tony Schroeder, Jill Kelly Koren, and Paul Kelly, spanning some 152 live appearances.

It’s probably best to let them talk about this final show in their own words. Says Jill Koren, “We played our first show when I was pregnant with my son and he just got his driver’s license yesterday. It’ll be nice sharing these songs one more time, and at one of our favorite venues, too.”

Tony Schroeder adds, “Playing with Paul and Jill lifted my spirits and provided an avenue to express myself. Change is bittersweet but friendships last!”

And Paul Kelly sums it up, “I will miss our three part harmonies, the folks in the audience listening hard, and the joy of making music with a long time friend and my daughter. It is hard to say goodbye.”

I encourage everyone to stop by Thomas Family

Winery this Saturday to say goodbye to this talented trio. We will miss them.

Hot Tip of the Week It’s not often here in Madison we get a Grammy-winning musician debuting his new band’s album at one of our local clubs! But that’s what’s going on Saturday night at Red Bicycle Hall with Robert Reynolds and 67 Sun playing their album release party. They have lots of guest musicians showing up to join the fun, so it’s an event you don’t want to miss. The other special event we have this weekend is Sunday at the Riverboat Inn, when Mike Milligan & Steam Shovel headline Riverfest 2021. Jhonnie & Sallie will be casting their magical musical spell as well, starting at 6 p.m., so get there early.

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

“We’re going to test everybody,” Jefferson County Sheriff Dave Thomas said Wednesday afternoon. “We’ve been testing all morning and we’re going to be doing more testing all afternoon. KDH has been here and taken seven or eight tests to send off to the state so we can see just what variant we are dealing with. Our provider has agreed to send in another nurse to assist our staff and we’re providing coolers and Gatorade-like fluids to all cell blocks.”

Thomas said no inmates have been transferred out for medical treatment so far and most of the infected are dealing with “basic flu-like symptoms” with inmates being provided aspirin to help with fever.

“There are no inmates who are super symptomatic and no hospitalizations,” Thomas said, noting that 31 of the 144 inmates in the jail have tested positive. “We’ve tried to keep it out of here and we’ve been lucky until now.”

Thomas said in addition to bring more medical staff on board and canceling vacations and time off for staff, he will be asking the prosecutor’s office and judges to review cases to see if any non-violent inmates are candidates for early release. However, he noted that many of the inmates have warrants on top of their current charges so that may not have much impact on jail population.

Meanwhile, Jefferson County remains in the “Orange” metric for medium to high spread as defined by the Indiana Department of Health. Jefferson County’s 7-day positivity for all tests is 10.1%.

Switzerland County remains in the “Red” metric with 19 new positive cases of COVID-19 in the last day and a 13.9% 7-day positivity rate. On Tuesday, Switzerland County Health Department had reported 282 positive cases of COVID-19 during the month of August.

On Tuesday, Trimble County had 11 new cases of COVID-19 while Carroll County had eight. Trimble’s positivity rate is 20.87% while Carroll’s rate is 13.29%.

In Indiana, 4,822 new positive cases of COVID-19 were reported along with 29 new deaths. There were 2,294 hospitalized with COVID-19 throughout Indiana.

Kentucky had 4,548 new cases of COVID-19 with 23 new deaths. On Tuesday, Kentucky had a total of 2,274 hospitalized with COVID, an increase from Monday when there were 2,198.

“We continue to be hit harder and harder with this delta variant,” said Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear. “This isn’t just people getting COVID; it’s them being sick enough to end up in the hospital.”

On Tuesday, Indiana Gov. Eric Holcomb extended the state’s COVID-19 public health emergency until Sept. 30 that keeps the state eligible for several emergency relief programs.

With about 52% of eligible Indiana residents vaccinated against COVID-19, health officials say about 97% of people hospitalized in the state with the illness are unvaccinated. Indiana hospitalizations have surged nearly 300% in the past month. A record number of infections have also been reported by Indiana schools.

Ex still in the picture

Dear Annie: About two years ago, my wife of 20 years, "Cynthia," and I divorced. Our two children are grown and out of the house. Our divorce wasn't the norm; we did it without a lawyer or mediator. Everything was civil; no one cheated or was abused. I think we both just changed over time.

About four months after the divorce, I met another woman, "Beth." Having already had my cry, I decided to give it a shot. Long story short, we were great for each other, and now, a year and a half later, we're engaged.

The problem is that Cynthia doesn't really have a family other than mine. My sister and the rest of my family are sympathetic to Cynthia and want to include her. I don't mind being around her, but the awkwardness comes in when Beth and Cynthia attend the same family events. Beth understands that it's unavoidable during big occasions, such as weddings and funerals. But she feels that it isn't normal for Cynthia to be around for our casual family gatherings, which are more frequent. She feels that once people divorce, they should start to move on with their lives and shouldn't hang around an ex's family gatherings.

I'm very torn. I want Beth to attend these events. However, if I asked Cynthia to stop being around so much, it might get back to my family, and then Beth and I would be deemed as spoilers in the family. But she may already be seen as an outcast by excluding herself from these gatherings.

Is Beth having anxiety over nothing, or should I ask my ex not to be around so much? — Ex In or Ex Out

Dear Ex In or Ex Out: Your ex-wife was a part of your family for 20 years, and that bond doesn't disappear once the ink dries on the divorce papers. It's understandable that she wants to stay in touch with her former in-laws, and it's understandable that they want to include her. But it's important that your fiancée really get to know and love your family, and she's having a hard time doing so with your ex-wife around. Rather than disinvite Cynthia, talk to your family members about your concern and plan additional outings with just them and Beth. Once Beth feels more settled and secure with her place in the family, it will be easier for her to relax at family gatherings, even when Cynthia is there.

Dear Annie: My husband and I own a boat that takes tourists on short trips. Three years ago, he fell in love with the only woman on board. When I realized something was up, I said, "If she is so wonderful, what is stopping you from being with her?" Without hesitation, he said, "The age difference."

I have not been able to stop thinking about that every day for the past three years. I am becoming upset even writing this to you. She is not interested in him. I guess he is old enough to be her father. But what if he meets someone his own age? I think I'd better see my lawyer. What do you think? Should we get a divorce? — Seaisick

Dear Seaisick: I can't tell you whether you should get a divorce based on your letter. But I can tell you that you can't keep living this way. One comment has been eating away at you for three years, and you need to put a stop to that before it swallows you whole. Have you tried talking to your husband? It's possible his comment was a joke, albeit a mean one. In any case, I'd recommend marriage counseling.

Argument on the front burner

Dear Annie: I would like your opinion on a recent incident that happened to me. I went to my son's house to go out to dinner with him and his family to celebrate his birthday. When I arrived, the only person there was my granddaughter. My son was meeting us at the restaurant, and my daughter-in-law, "Jean," had been called into work but intended to be back at the house shortly. She still hadn't returned by the time my granddaughter and I had to head to the restaurant, and I noticed a pot of soup boiling on the stove. I thought Jean had forgotten to turn the burner off, so I turned it off.

Well, I was wrong. We all happened to return later at about the same time, and when Jean noticed the burner was off, she asked, "Who turned the stove off?" I told her I had. She looked very upset and said, "The soup was supposed to cook for 12 hours." I said, "Well, it is better to be safe than sorry."

Later, I asked my son whether Jean was still upset with me, and he said she had not been upset with me. I told him I could tell by the expression on her face that she was. He then said I should not have turned the burner off, that "it was her stove." I told him I was concerned the house might catch on fire, and he said that the house is her house and that if it had caught on fire, it would have been her concern. I do not like family discord, and I don't usually insert myself into their affairs, but I think that was a foolish thing to do and I acted appropriately by turning the stove off. What say you? — Safety First

Dear Safety First: It's unsafe to leave a stove burning unattended. But if you keep treating this as an argument, things will get unnecessarily heated. Wait for things to simmer down before letting your son know about the fire safety issue, and erase all traces of "I told you so" from your tone. When the holidays roll around, consider buying them a slow cooker — much safer to leave on for hours at a time.

Dear Annie: I love, love, love your column. I especially love that you listen to your readers and are willing to add to your answers and even alter your advice when given new information. My comment is about your response to "Missing Life and Happiness," who has been married for over 25 years to a man who turns his back on her in every way possible, basically treating her as a disgusting part of his life. I agree that she should focus on herself, enrich her life and improve her self-esteem. However, I believe she needs to do more than discuss issues with her husband. She has put up with this for too long. I don't believe she should waste even one more second allowing that evil person in her life. From her description, it doesn't sound possible for him to change how he treats her. It's time to remove him and move on! — Jane G.

Dear Jane: You're not the only reader who thought I should have told "Missing Life and Happiness" that enough was enough. I wanted to let her reach her own decision about her marriage, and I was trying to encourage her to get into a good headspace for evaluating things. Perhaps I should have worded my response more strongly, as I agree with you: The way her husband has been treating her is unacceptable. Thank you for writing.

JCBT asked to invest in data programs to promote tourism

BY BOB DEMAREE

With a focus on using data to more effectively promote Jefferson County tourism, the Jefferson County Board of Tourism was asked to consider investing in two programs that will help with that at its meeting on Monday.

Sarah Prasil, executive marketing director of Visit Madison Inc., said the program will help generate reports to monitor trends and aid with marketing forecasts in promoting tourism in Jefferson County and better identify where to direct marketing efforts and dollars.

The programs are the STR report that tracks hotel data and the AirDNA report that tracks Airbnb and vacation rentals. Once compiled, Prasil said her office would receive monthly updates with measurables to guide VMI in its work to bring visitors to the county. The STR report costs $2,200 annually while the AirDNA report is another $1,800 annually.

Prasil encouraged the board to move forward with the subscriptions. “Let’s get involved with these reports. Let’s get this data. Let’s start with both of these at the same time, and start diving into these numbers and seeing what they look like, and start making decisions on what we can do to promote that mid-week stay, or those four or five months that are slow” for local businesses.

JCBT member Todd Boone agreed, noting the data “would be great to have but my suggestion would be let’s put a plan around what we would do with it ... if the right plan is behind it, I think we would support it.”

Madison native Dan Galvin, who was hired by JCBT along with Michael Fortunato to develop a collaborative marketing plan for Jefferson County, said, “I think by the time we get to the end of our exercise in our six-month period that kind of data is going to be really important because it’s going to tell us where people are coming from, a lot of demographic information, age, income, what cities are they coming from geographically. It will really help you to target your marketing in the future.”

In other business, the board:

- Adopted a quarterly process for hearing requests for partnerships and projects in which JCBT would decide whether to appropriate funds. The quarterly cycle begins next month at the September meeting with the board hearing presentations from county groups requesting funds. The board will then determine any appropriations for requests at the following month’s meeting.

There was also a discussion about budgeting an amount that can be appropriated for partnerships and projects with the suggestion they might consider a percentage of what’s available in revenue from the innkeepers tax.

Board treasurer Curtis Chatham will develop a budget plan in which he will break down possible percentages on how the budget could be divided, and submit that at the Sept. 27 meeting.

JUBILEE

he was in the Army. In 1965, at just 14 years old, he got involved in organizing the event and that role has only grown.

Charles McNeely, president of the Chelsea Jubilee, said he has been going to the festival for 52 years. “I just enjoy being there,” said McNeely, noting it’s a combination of the people he sees and the activities that he likes being a part.

Smith said the event began in the 1860s as a means for farmers to celebrate their harvest. He said several groups have hosted the event over the years. From the 1941 to 1955, the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR), a fraternal organization composed of veterans, hosted the Chelsea Jubilee. After that he said several other organizations kept it going. In 1969, the Chelsea Park Jubilee Association was formed, and six acres of ground at Chelsea Corner in Saluda Township provided the festival a permanent location, where it’s been located ever since. The association deeded the park to the Saluda Township, then began a 99-year lease for the first week in September. For 51 weeks a year, the park is under township control with the association having it for the one week surrounding Chelsea Jubilee.

This year’s Chelsea Jubilee begins Friday with the Indiana Gospel Music Association Southern District performing from 4-6 p.m. The opening ceremony is at 6:30 p.m. followed by the Smoking Cinders Band from 7-10 p.m.

On Saturday, the antique tractor parade begins at noon and there will be corn hole competitions at 1 p.m. All afternoon there will be kids games including penny search, pedal pull, haybale toss, water balloons and a bubblegum contest. Prizes will be given to the top three finishers in each contest. There will also be a candy cannon that will fire out candy for the children to collect.

On Saturday evening the band, Back Porch, will perform from 4-5:30 p.m. Country Kickers Line Dancers will entertain from 5:30-6:30 p.m. And the Smoking Cinders Band will be back for the second night from 7-10 p.m.

Three churches — New Prospect Baptist Church of Hanover, Mount Zion United Methodist Church of Hanover, and New Hope Baptist Church of Lexington — will operate food concessions throughout the festival including tacos, hot dogs, ice cream and pies. Additionally, Deputy Fire Department will be on site with a fish fry.

Smith has great memories of the Chelsea Jubilee, even as it has changed over the years. One of the past activities was the horse shoe contest, which Smith was involved. He also remembers the squirrel soup in which they would go hunt the squirrels and his aunt would make the squirrel soup and the hickory nut pie, which they specifically grew nuts just for that purpose. Today, there’s no longer hickory nut pie, but Smith said there are usually apple, peach and pecan pies and they are all always delicious.

“I kind of have this festival instilled in me,” said Smith. “Until I die, I’ll keep working to be sure we have a Jubilee.”

To that effect, Bates recommended and received approval for a change in Southwestern’s COVID-19 policy. The change begins Sept. 7 — the day high school students are scheduled to return for in-person instruction — and allows that students found to be in close contact with a person who has tested positive for COVID-19 will be required to quarantine unless they meet one of the three criteria: fully vaccinated for COVID-19 and symptom free; tested positive for COVID-19 within the past 90 days and symptom free; and properly wearing a mask when in close contact with the COVID positive person and symptom free.

However, even if they meet one of the criteria, parents can still opt to quarantine their child if they so desire. A quarantined student may return from quarantine to classes on Day 11 but will be required to wear a mask on Days 11, 12, 13 and 14, and can return without a mask on Day 15.

Bates said the new quarantine policy will “cut our numbers in half” for those required to quarantine, and it provides an incentive for students to wear masks in that it can prevent them from having to quarantine.

Brandon Frye, president of the Classroom Teachers Association, said he is concerned about how teachers will know which students will and will not need masks in the classroom among those returning from quarantine on Day 11.

“I’m all for students being in class where they receive direct instruction. I’m not going to disagree with that part,” Frye said. “Are we going to be informed when students are back and they are having to wear a mask?”

Board member John Jones said he appreciated hearing Frye’s concerns and that he’s empathetic to the challenges teachers and staff are facing in dealing with COVID-19. “We’re not in the trenches like you are,” Jones said, adding it would be worthwhile to “come up with a tracking method” to help teachers and staff know which students must be masked.

Katy Schneider, a parent, called it a “challenging situation” but thought the new quarantine policy provides the school corporation a “win-win” in facing the challenges of the pandemic by working toward deciding how best to move forward.

“In-school, in-person is all of ours goal,” she said, suggesting that a daily spreadsheet could be developed to help with tracking, perhaps even hiring a person to do that.

Kristin May spoke in favor of not making masks mandatory, noting there are many other illnesses by which people can die and that it is something “only God knows.” May went on to add that she “fully respects” teachers and staff for what they’re going through in dealing with COVID-19 in the schools and appreciates the school board “for giving us parents options.”

Jones said COVID-19 presents uncertain challenges. “The word for this year is ‘currently’ ” Jones said, noting the school corporation will be reassessing what is “currently” required by circumstances throughout the school year.

In other business, the board:

- Held a public hearing required leading into the collective bargaining process with the Southwestern Classroom Teachers Association that is slated to begin Sept. 15 and be completed by Nov. 15. Bates noted that during negotiations they will have to address how they may be impacted by any new laws passed by the state legislature. For example, he said minimum teacher salary requirement will increase with the 2022-23 school year. Beginning then, if a school district is unable to establish at least a $40,000 salary for its full-time teachers, the district must report the inability to meet the threshold to the Indiana Department of Education. Additionally, it’s been established that 45% of state tuition support be used for full-time teacher salaries, which Bates said does not include benefits or salaries for counselors and aides.

- Agreed to allow Laura Cash Boldery, corporation treasurer, to advertise the budget once it is completed. Boldery said the State Board of Accounts has required additional reports that have delayed her efforts to complete the budget, and they want to stay on track for the timeline in determining next year’s budget. Additionally, the board approved the annual financial report and the annual ECA (Extra-Curricular Account) financial report.
- Bill Barnes of the Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County reported on a Food for Students Fund that was created when Elijah Chandler raised

$10,000 to create an endowment to help fund students’ lunch accounts. Barnes said Chandler wanted to provide a means to help “parents/guardians who struggle to afford lunches” for their children. He said anyone can donate to the fund through the Community Foundation. “This program has been very generous,” said Boldery, who noted the endowment “helps us out where they can.”

- Approved the resignation of Taylor Whitehead as seventh grade social studies teacher and hired Sean Harvey for middle school social studies teacher. Additionally, Elizabeth Slade was hired as language arts teacher at the middle school, Melissa Everage was hired as elementary teacher and Kelsey Sachleben as special education elementary teacher.

Crank returning to his roots at Southwestern

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Brian Crank has spent nearly a decade coaching boys sports, either on the basketball court or the baseball diamond. But when he had a chance to return to coaching girls, the veteran coach jumped at the chance.

Crank was named the head girls basketball coach at Southwestern on Monday, replacing Devin Brierly who resigned after taking a job away from education. For Crank, the move to the girls' side of the program was a chance to return to his roots as in coaching.

"It's been a while since I coached girls but it's where I started and really, I think it will be an easy transition," Crank said. "I like coaching girls. They really play hard for a coach and there aren't as many egos. Boys will work hard for you but it feels like girls will give you everything they have. I'm looking forward to it."

Crank spent several years as an assistant coach with Madison's girls basketball program under head coach Rich Bagienski before heading to Southwestern to work with boys head coach Andy Firth. In 2015, he moved across the Ohio River to take the head coaching job with Carroll County boys basketball.

Crank spent four years at Carrollton and amassed a record of 41-70. He bookended that tenure with double-digit wins in both his first and fourth seasons while rebuilding in between.

Crank, who also served as an assistant baseball coach during his time in Carroll, returned to Southwestern last year to serve as a junior varsity coach for Zac Nussbaum's boys basketball program and as dean of students. It was actually Nussbaum who encouraged Crank to go after the girls job when it opened.

"Zac was very supportive of me and even suggested that I apply," Crank said. "He has three girls coming up in the system and wants to make sure that the program is in good hands. He trusts me with his kids and that was good enough for me."

Southwestern Athletic Director Tom Scroggins said that he was thrilled to bring Crank on board, but also noted that he had several great candidates for the job, a luxury that not a lot of schools have this late into a school year.

"We had a couple of very good candidates and felt like all of them that applied internally were wonderful people and very qualified," Scroggins said. "We have interviewed Brian a couple of times for jobs and it just never seemed to be the right time, but we feel like this time it is. He has shown great leadership, not only as the jayvee coach but as dean of students as well. We're excited."

In his position as dean of students and boys assistant coach, Crank got to know his players well, both on and off the court. While he is new to the girls program, he is not new to the school and he feels like that will be an advantage to him as the season gets underway.

"I've gotten to know the players but more importantly, they know me. They know how I am on the court and it won't be a surprise to them," Crank said with a laugh. "I'm a fiery guy and an emotional guy and that won't be a shock to them."

Crank is currently in the midst of putting together his staff and will begin conditioning soon.

Loaded Hanover squad poised to make history

Panthers aiming for 4th straight HCAC crown

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Matt Theobald didn't even want to play a football season. Faced with a fall cancellation, the Hanover College football coach made his feelings known when the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference began discussing playing football games in the spring.

"I didn't feel like there was any reason to do it. Let's play jayvee games and keep our guys healthy. I was the only one to vote no," Theobald said. "I was like, OK, if that's what you want ..."

Hanover only got to play four games during the abbreviated spring season — and rolled to four easy wins — but as a result, the Panthers were awarded the HCAC championship in a vote by league coaches and officials.

The victory was Hanover's third-straight HCAC crown and now, with normalcy somewhat restored, the Panthers will aim for a record fourth-straight title when they kick off the 2021 non-conference season on Saturday at Centre College in

David Campbell

Hanover's B.J. Williams (50) rushes the quarterback during a game last spring. Williams, a senior from Rome, Georgia, will anchor the Panther defensive line.

Danville, Kentucky.

No Hanover team has ever won four-straight conference crowns and while achieving that feat is on everybody's minds, Theobald was quick to point out that the Panthers plan on taking the season one opponent at a time.

"We open conference with Anderson but we haven't even looked at Anderson. We're looking at Centre and then Adrian and then Albion first," Theobald said. "When we get to Anderson, we'll look at Anderson. But first thing's first."

A former player at Hanover when the Panthers were a powerhouse under coach Wayne Perry, Theobald returned to his alma mater five years ago and has returned Hanover to its past glory. This year's team might be his best yet. The Panthers were tabbed as the favorites in the HCAC this season by league coaches and received seven of the eight first-place votes. Hanover is also ranked seventh in the NCAA's North Regional rankings and received votes in both the AFCA and D3Football.com preseason Top 25 polls.

A big reason for that

David Campbell

Hanover College quarterback Matthew Weimer (1) looks to pass during a game last spring. The senior from Floyd Central will be called upon to lead the Panthers' potent offense this year.

Hanover opens the season on Saturday against Centre, the last team to post a win over the Panthers in the regular season, 45-31 in the 2019 season opener.

optimism in Hanover stems from the veteran group that the Panthers have coming back. Several starters have taken advantage of the NCAA's extra-year rule due to COVID so the Panthers have a talented and experienced core.

Shawn Coane, a senior running back from Evansville, is set to break every rushing record at the school after rolling up 420 yards and six touchdowns in the four-game spring season. He has rushed for 3,163 yards and 39 touchdowns in his college career and has averaged 6.1 yards per carry.

Coane's backfield mate Walt Ballinger, a senior from Beech Grove, was nearly as good last spring with 392 yards rushing. He has rushed for 1,443

Madison scrambles for opponent as COVID-19 shuts down Carroll

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Carroll County High School has been forced to shut down this week due to a COVID-19 outbreak in the school and the effects are being felt across the Ohio River.

Carroll County announced on Tuesday that it was shutting down school for the remainder of the week, as well as canceling all extra-curricular activities. That decision proved to be a gut shot for Madison, which was planning on hosting Carroll in its home football opener on Friday.

Suddenly without an opponent, Madison Athletic Director Joe Bronkella and Head Football Coach Leroy Wilson III have spent the last two days frantically searching for an opponent. As of Wednesday afternoon, that search was to no avail.

"I have posted on the Kentucky Football Coaches page and on the IHSA and have contacted several schools," Bronkella said. "There may be a slight possibility of something but just not sure."

Bronkella has suspected that there may be an issue with the Carroll game for several weeks. The Panthers have yet to play a game this season due to COVID quarantines and as a result, Bronkella had lined up Scottsburg to be back-up plan for this week. Scottsburg was scheduled to play Salem but that game was canceled when Salem shut down due to the disease.

On Sunday, Carroll County officials assured Bronkella that they would be able to play the game and Bronkella notified Scottsburg, which quickly scheduled Connersville as a replacement. Two days later, Bronkella was left scrambling after Carroll pulled the plug.

Bronkella said he has already been in contact with every school in Indiana that has an opening this week. Most, like Salem, Paoli, West Washington, Greensburg and North Montgomery, have been forced to shut down due to issues with COVID. Others, like Union (Dugger) and Culver, had not returned his call as of yet.

As a result, Bronkella has turned his eye southward toward Kentucky has contacted several of those schools that have been left with an opening, such as Gallatin County, Bardstown, Kentucky Country Day and Meade County among others.

Carroll's decision to shut down hasn't just affected football. The school has also canceled all golf, soccer and volleyball matches for this week and is hopeful to returning to action on Tuesday, Sept. 7.

If Madison is unable to find an opponent for this week, it's next scheduled game is at home against Milan on Friday, Sept. 10. It will mark the first-ever meeting in football between the two schools.

Southwestern falls to Charlestown in return to court

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Southwestern volleyball returned to the court for the first time in two weeks and suffered a tough five-set loss to Charlestown on Tuesday in Hanover.

Every set but one was a barn-burner that went down to the wire. Southwestern won the first set 25-23, lost the second set 25-20 and third set 28-26 before regrouping for a dominating 25-10 win in the fourth set. Charlestown then claimed the win with a 15-12 victory in the fifth set.

“I thought the difference in the game tonight was ball control and mental mistakes. We had more mental errors and had less ball control than Charlestown tonight,” Southwestern coach Chris Johnson said. “I think had we played our best game we would have won in three sets but we really didn’t have it all together. Some of that is due to just coming back from massive COVID layoffs and not playing at all last week.”

Marissa Naylor had 11 kills on 29-for-35 hitting, five aces on 21-for-23 serving, and added 20 digs while going 19-for-20 passing for the Rebels. Elle Ford had 10 kills on 32-for-36 hitting, Riley Scroggins had eight kills, Emma Long was 14-for-14 serving with two aces, and Meaghan Kramer was a perfect 133-for-133 setting with 35 assists, was 18-for-18 serving and had 21 digs.

“Good points for today is that we were back on the court getting a chance to play and we had some individual efforts that excelled,” Johnson said. “Marissa Naylor was our rock today. She led the way offensively both hitting and from the serving line. She played clean on defense and stayed aggressive the whole match.

“Ashleigh Ream and Parker Mefford did a great job stepping up during the match and keeping our back row play consistent.

“As a team we had 54 errors and with that many mistakes you are not going to beat very many teams. And I still think we played well enough to win had we shaved just two or three of those mistakes off each set. We will look to bounce back tomorrow night.”

Southwestern, now 4-2, traveled to Jeffersonville on Wednesday and hosts Austin today in a match that has been moved up from Oct. 4. The Rebels then travel to Rising Sun on Tuesday.

Southwestern’s Emma Long (0) and Riley Scroggins (13) go up to block Charlestown’s Raegan Abbott during Tuesday’s match at home.

CUBS BEAT HAUSER IN 5
Madison volleyball gutted out a five-set win at Hauser on Monday.

The Cubs jumped out to a 2-0 lead after winning the first two sets 25-12 and 25-20 but Hauser rallied to win the next two 25-23 and 25-13. Madison needed overtime in the fifth set to finally pull out the the win and the Cubs did just that 17-15.

Chloe Preocanin had a big hitting night for the Cubs, collecting 15 kills on 46 attacks. She was also 14-for-16 serving with five aces and had 20 digs. Ava Armbrecht was an impressive 27-for-27 serving with 10 aces, had 24 assists and had seven digs, Kallie Eder had 12 kills and was 18-for-18 serving with three aces and had seven digs, Taylor Harsin was 17-for-19 serving with an ace and had seven kills and 15 digs, Brooklyn Cornelius was 11-for-11 serving with two aces and had seven digs, and Addi Mundt had eight digs. Madison, now 8-2, hosted Silver Creek on Wednesday and hosts South Ripley next Wednesday.

SHAWE SWEEPS PAST JCD
Shawe volleyball posted a three-set sweep of Jac-Cen-Del on Monday, winning 25-16, 25-15 and 27-25.

Lina Leatherman was 9-of-12 serving with two aces, eight kills and two blocks, Emmalina Leatherman was 9-of-10 serving with an ace, 10 kills and eight blocks, Harlee Hill was 13-for-16 serving with four aces, three kills and two blocks, Payton Lock was 12-of-15 serving with five aces and five blocks, Allison Knoebel was 6-for-6 serving with three kills, and Kelly McClure was 8-for-8 serving.

Shawe, now 2-3 overall and 1-1 in the Ohio River Valley Conference, traveled to Switzerland County on Wednesday and heads to Christian Academy of Madison.

TRIMBLE BEATS GALLATIN
Trimble County volleyball knocked off Gallatin County in two sets, 25-18, 25-14 Tuesday on the road.

Trimble, now 2-3 overall, improves to 1-1 in the North Central Kentucky Conference and the 31st District. The Raiders hosted Williamstown on Wednesday but a home match with Carroll County on Thursday has been postponed. The Raiders travel to Henry County next Tuesday.

SWITZERLAND FALLS TO MILAN

No scores or stats for the match were available. Switzerland, now 0-7 overall and 0-3 ORVC, hosted Shawe on Wednesday and hosts Jac-Cen-Del next Tuesday.

Lady Cubs 2nd, Cubs 3rd at Hokum Karem

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Madison cross country put together strong performances in both the girls and boys races at the Darrell Kingery Hokum Karem race at Silver Creek on Tuesday.
The girls scored 41 points to finish second to ninth-ranked Floyd Central, which swept the event and finished with a perfect six points. The event is unlike other cross country races in which two runners are teamed up and their times are combined to determine their finish.

Cadence Traylor and Ava Spencer led Madison by finishing fifth in 40:18 while Maddie Flowers and Isabel Wilber were 15th and Sarah Adams and Addie Nott were 21st.
“The girls ran well in some wet conditions but nice temperatures,” Madison girls coach Josh Wilber said. “We are a relatively young team this year with half of the team in their first year of high school cross country. They all did a nice job keeping focused and running their times against good competition.”

Madison’s boys placed third overall with 35 points, their highest finish in the event in nearly a decade. Eastern (Pekin) won with 19 points and Borden was second with 23.

Lane Brawner and Logan Ferris led the Cubs with a seventh-place finish in 34:52.
Madison competes in the Columbus North Classic along with Southwestern and Switzerland County on Saturday.

Eder girls medalist in Madison loss to Floyd

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Madison girls golf finished second to ninth-ranked Floyd Central in a dual meet at Sunrise Golf Course on a wet and rainy Tuesday.
The Cubs shot a 199 to Floyd’s 160 but Madison senior Keara Eder still brought home medalist honors with a one-over 37. Grace Bronkella shot a 47, Gracie Gasaway carded a 54 and Isa James a 61.
Trinity Bramer led Floyd with a 38, Paige Giovenco and Chloe Cook each shot 39s, and Sophie Cook and Audrey Giovenco each carded 44s.

“I’m not completely surprised by a little higher score than usual. It was not only wet, but we haven’t played a full nine holes of meaningful golf in over a week due to the weather. One week in golf season-time can feel like a month, so we need to tighten it back up a little bit,” Madison coach Jake Shockley said. “Keara got off to a slow start with being three over after five holes, but she had back-to-back birdies on seven and eight and just missed another one on nine. She was as tough as usual out there. Winning medalist against those five is a big deal. One of them will probably win the Hoosier Hills title next week.

“We had two starters out today, and Isa did an admirable job filling in. I’m glad she is around for this week,” Shockley added. “Even though Grace might not have played as well as she has been, a 47 is still a solid score. I’ve been seeing good things out of Grace and Gracie lately. I just think we need to get back in the groove.”

Madison headed to Henryville on Wednesday and hosts Shawe and Scottsburg today at Sunrise Golf Course.

Lester sharp, Cards top Reds to inch closer in wild-card race

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CINCINNATI — Jon Lester allowed one hit while pitching into the seventh inning, Paul Goldschmidt homered and the St. Louis Cardinals inched closer to the slumping Cincinnati Reds in the NL wild-card race with a 3-1 win Monday night.

The Cardinals closed within 2 1/2 games of Cincinnati for the second wild-card spot. San Diego is in between them.

The Reds have scored one run in each of their last three games — all losses — and have dropped five of their last seven games. Their top four hitters in the lineup combined to finish 0-for-14.

“We’re a good-hitting team,” said Reds shortstop Kyle Farmer, who got Cincinnati’s only two hits, including his career-high 12th home run. “Good hitting teams break out of slumps. There’s not much pressing among guys. We’ve faced some really, really good pitching the last five games.”

Lester (5-6), in his sixth start for St. Louis since being acquired from Washington on July 30, retired 16 consecutive batters after giving up his only hit, Farmer’s second-inning leadoff homer.

“Obviously, we all know what’s in front us,” Lester said. “We have a lot of games against these guys and the (Central-leading) Brewers coming up. To pitch well is a great feeling. To do it against a team that you’re trying to chase down is even better.”

The veteran left-hander walked two and struck out five in 6 1/3 innings, earning his fourth straight win after losing his first two starts with the Cardinals.

Right fielder Dylan Carlson, who contributed a sliding catch of Joey Votto’s flyball in short right-center field in the fourth, described Lester’s work as “awesome.”

“He had his game face on, and he had the stuff to match the strong intensity he brought to the game,” St. Louis manager Mike Shildt said. “He changed speeds well and had the good curveball in play. He kept then off-balance. He had them a little out front. He was tremendous to get into the seventh.”

T.J. McFarland allowed a hit in 1 1/3 innings and Luis Garcia got the last out of the eighth before Giovanny Gallegos pitched the ninth for his third save.

The Cardinals needed just two batters to grab a 2-0 lead. Luis Castillo (7-14) walked Tommy Edman, the reigning NL Player of the Week, to lead off the game. Goldschmidt followed with an opposite-field homer to right, his 22nd of the season and 11th in 41 career games at Great American Ball Park.

“Luis got a little to much of the plate to a good hitter,” Reds manager David

Bell said. “Other than that, he was outstanding.”

St. Louis added a run in the sixth when Carlson doubled and later scored on Tyler O’Neill’s dribbler up the third base line.

Farmer’s homer was his 12th of the season, adding to his single-season career high.

Castillo lasted six innings, giving up five hits and three runs with two walks and eight strikeouts. He has lost four of his last five starts after three straight wins.

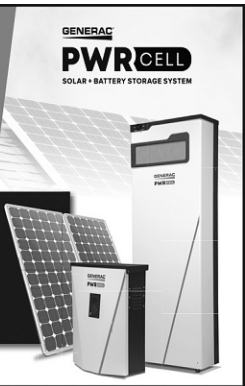

Votto needs one home run to reach 324 in his career and tie Hall of Famer Frank Robinson for second on Cincinnati’s career homer list. Johnny Bench leads with 389.
